The entire course of Corky Laing's life was changed by a power cut. A little over 50 years ago, in the summer of 1969, the drummer and his band Energy were playing a gig at a beach hut in Nantucket, a small island off the coast of Massachusetts. With the entire population having cranked up their air conditioning, the power supply crashed suddenly at half-past midnight.

We may not choose conflict, but we must choose how to deal with it, which takes us to the classic psychology underpinning of human behavior: fight or flight. This, incidently, is a major pathway into understanding character development, i.e., cowards run, heroes stay and fight. Characters grow--the character arch--based on how they handle conflict (overcoming obstacles).
