The Honda Civic is a line of cars manufactured by Honda. Originally a subcompact, the Civic has gone through several generational changes, becoming both larger and more upscale, moving into the compact car segment. EPA guidelines for vehicle size class stipulate a car having combined passenger and cargo room of 110 to 119.9 cubic feet is considered a mid-size car, and as such the tenth generation Civic sedan is technically a small-end mid-size car, although it still competes in the compact class

The rectilinear third-gen Civic with its box-back hatch variant made its debut for 1984, and as usual Honda reserved the choicest cuts for its Japanese domestic market. In those pre-Type R days, JDM Si models (hatchbacks and sedans were available) got a 122-hp DOHC engine necessitating a bulge in the hood.

The Honda Civic Si is a sport compact trim of Civic by Honda. The Si trim was introduced for the third generation of Honda Civics in both Japan and North America. In Canada and elsewhere, the trim became known as the SiR for the sixth and seventh generations, and the Si trim was equivalent to the USDM EX model. For the Japanese and European markets, the Civic Type R was adopted as the high-performance variant of the Civic, starting with the EK9 hatch for Japan in 1996 and then with the EP3 hatch
