In a Lonely Place is purported as author Dorothy B. Hughes best novel, a hardboiled noir set in postwar Los Angeles. Dix Steele is cocky and sure of himself as the novel begins. Although written in third person, the author never strays from the main character's point of view as the world and the events in the novel filter solely through his viewpoint.

~~In a Lonely Place - Wikipedia~~

Dorothy B. Hughes is known for her crime novels, 14 books primarily in the hard-boiled and noir genre and In a Lonely Place would be her most recognisable. This could be because of the Nicholas Ray adaptation starring Humphrey Bogart and Gloria Grahame or because of the psychological elements she brings to the genre.

~~In a Lonely Place by Dorothy B. Hughes - book review~~

In a Lonely Place by Dorothy B. Hughes Dorothy B. Hughes was a poet before she was a crime writer, and her books are as notable for their qualities of mood and coloring as for their intrigues. The ominous and mournful tone that she sustains throughout In a Lonely Place is filtered, with uncanny skill, through the consciousness of Dix Steele, a wartime aviator seething with resentment, guilt, and fearful loathing.

Those states are the "lonely place" Hughes refers to in her title, the moods of resentment, longing, paranoia, jealousy, and rage that her protagonist, the serial strangler Dix Steele, exists in. The implicit topic of In a Lonely Place is misogyny, but Hughes's novel is one in which a serial killer of women is far weaker than the women he kills.

~~In a Lonely Place Quotes by Dorothy B. Hughes~~

In a Lonely Place is a 1950 American film noir directed by Nicholas Ray and starring Humphrey Bogart and Gloria Grahame, produced for Bogart's Santana Productions. The script was written by Andrew P. Solt from Edmund North's adaptation of Dorothy B. Hughes' 1947 novel of the same name. Bogart stars as Dixon Steele, a deranged and troubled screenwriter suspected of murder, and Grahame co-stars as Laurel Gray, a neighbor who falls under his spell. Beyond its surface plot of confused identity and t

~~In A Lonely Place by Dorothy B. Hughes - Knowledge Lost~~

In a Lonely Place is feminist not only for its portrayal of women as strong independent characters, but also in the way that it tackled masculinity. Toxic masculinity can be seen in the book through the serial killer. This is a man who preys on women in vulnerable dark places which is clearly a play for power.

About In a Lonely Place A classic California noir with a feminist twist, this prescient 1947 novel exposed misogyny in post-World War II American society, making it far ahead of its time. Los Angeles in the late 1940s is a city of promise and prosperity, but not for former fighter pilot Dix Steele.

~~In a Lonely Place — The Barnes & Noble Review~~

Dorothy B. Hughes is certainly a powerful (and sadly over-looked) writer. In "In a Lonely Place" she depicts a vivid, hypnotic vision of post-WW2 LA, and she draws a scarily realistic and sometimes sympathetic portrait of "protagonist" Dix Steele.

~~In a Lonely Place book by Dorothy B. Hughes~~

Written with controlled elegance, Dorothy B. Hughes's tense novel is at once an early indictment of a truly toxic masculinity and a twisty page-turner with a surprisingly feminist resolution. A classic of golden age noir, In a Lonely Place also inspired Nicholas Ray's 1950 film of the same name, starring Humphrey Bogart. show more
