Important: if you shoot in limited light in manual modes (above) and if the mini zoom cannot use its longest exposure value, the camera simply simply gives up and resorts to bulb mode. Thus one might be shooting in manual flash-off mode in limited light, press the shutter, and the shutter will stay open as long as one presses down.

A group for users of the Leica Mini, Mini II, Mini III or Minilux. Film cameras only in this group please!. This is just an experiment so see if it gains any popularity as I have noticed there is no specific group for one of my favourite cameras, the Leica Mini II. Leica digital cameras and mini zooms are not permitted to enter images to the group.

Leica Mini Zoom - A Quick Look

I have owned a MINI ZOOM since Sept.94 and for ages blamed myself for out of focus images interspersed with superb ones. I finally sent it to Leica who replaced the electronics, now every image is sharp and IMO the lens is excellent. March 1994 Australian Camera concluded "You'd have to pay dearly to obtain an SLR package with Intrigue definitely got the better of me with the Leica Mini. I must admit I know very little about Leica compact cameras, and it would seem after reading a little bit on the Internet, nor do many other people. I've read that the Leica Mini was made by Minolta, Panasonic and I'm pretty sure I've read of at least one other OEM mentioned too.

The Leica Minilux can be set to focus automatically if the user wishes but can just as easily be changed to manual focus. The automatic focus would naturally draw the focus of the camera lens to the subject in the center of the frame. Manual gives the photographer more freedom to choose what they wish to focus on in a picture they take.
