Everybody makes mistakes, and it's much better to make them on your small practice projects. That way, you can get used to your equipment, find out what it can do, and learn how to tell stories with film. So if you're planning to make a documentary, make a mini-documentary to practise. If you're planning a drama, film a single scene first.

Basic Equipment for New Filmmaking
Students | B&H Explora Filmmaking (or, in an academic context, film production) is the process of making a film, generally in the sense of films intended for extensive theatrical exhibition. Filmmaking involves a number of discrete stages including an initial story, idea, or commission, through screenwriting, casting, shooting, sound recording and pre-production, editing, and screening the finished product before an ...
